Dr. Lennox Gordon Bell has been, and continues to be, a true friend to the medical students of this college. Many of the outstanding physicians of this province, and, indeed, of North America, owe a great deal to this man. We, the medical students of this faculty, are keenly aware of this debt and have attempted to express our gratitude by dedicating this edition of ASKLEPIOS to Dr. Bell. We hope, Dr. Bell, that you will continue to inspire us and our successors as you have done so fruitfully in the past.

DEAN'S MESSAGE

I should like to congratulate the Manitoba Medical Students' Association on the publication of this medical yearbook. The very great success of the 1967 yearbook, which was dedicated to the memory of Professor Joseph Doupe, has been repeated in this volume.

In future years you will derive considerable satisfaction from this yearbook which records the activities of the student body during the 1967-68 term. It will serve to remind you of your colleagues and will bring back many fond memories of the time you have spent in this Faculty.

The class of 1968 have almost completed the first phase of their lifelong education as students of medicine. They will be leaving the Faculty to take up internships in a most exciting period in the history of medicine. New medical knowledge is becoming available at a very rapid rate and new methods of delivering medical care to the Community are being developed. In this rapidly changing medical world you will find that you must maintain the habits of study and self-education throughout your life. We, in the Faculty of Medicine, have every confidence in you and wish you well.

T.W. Fyles, M.D.,
Dean, Faculty of Medicine.

SENIOR STICK'S MESSAGE

I was most pleased when Ross Taylor asked me to write a brief message for the 1967-68 edition of our yearbook, because there is no doubt in my mind that the publishing of a yearbook is the most significant and lasting project that the Students' Association supports. Although the activities of all the years are recorded within this book, it is natural that the greatest pleasure will accrue to the graduates, the class of 1968.

We have enjoyed our four years at the Medical College, they have passed quickly, but all of us have made some lasting friendships and have some unforgettable memories. After this final year we will all follow different paths, but whether we eventually end up in general practice, research, a specialty, or whatever, this book will always be available to us to provide a reminder of our years together at medical college. Therein lies its value.

Finally, whether we remain in Manitoba or leave, we are all proud to be graduates of this fine medical college and we wish only the best in the future for the College and its staff.

Bob Ramsay,

MANITOBA MEDICAL THE PAST...

"During the first winter, lectures were held in the Winnipeg Central High School and the practical work was done in the morgue of the Winnipeg General Hospital. Later, some of the teaching was done in a cottage on Isabel (or Frances) Street."

TO THE COLLEGE

"...In 1906 the first stage of the present building was completed at Emily and Bannatyne. An addition on the south side in 1911 was built to provide space for a library. In 1913 the coach house was built to the south of this again. The biochemistry, physiology, and bacteriology wing was completed in 1921; the pathology-provincial laboratory building in 1922, and the library, bacteriology, and cafeteria wing in 1955 and enlarged in 1962. The most recent addition, the Chown Building, was completed in 1965."

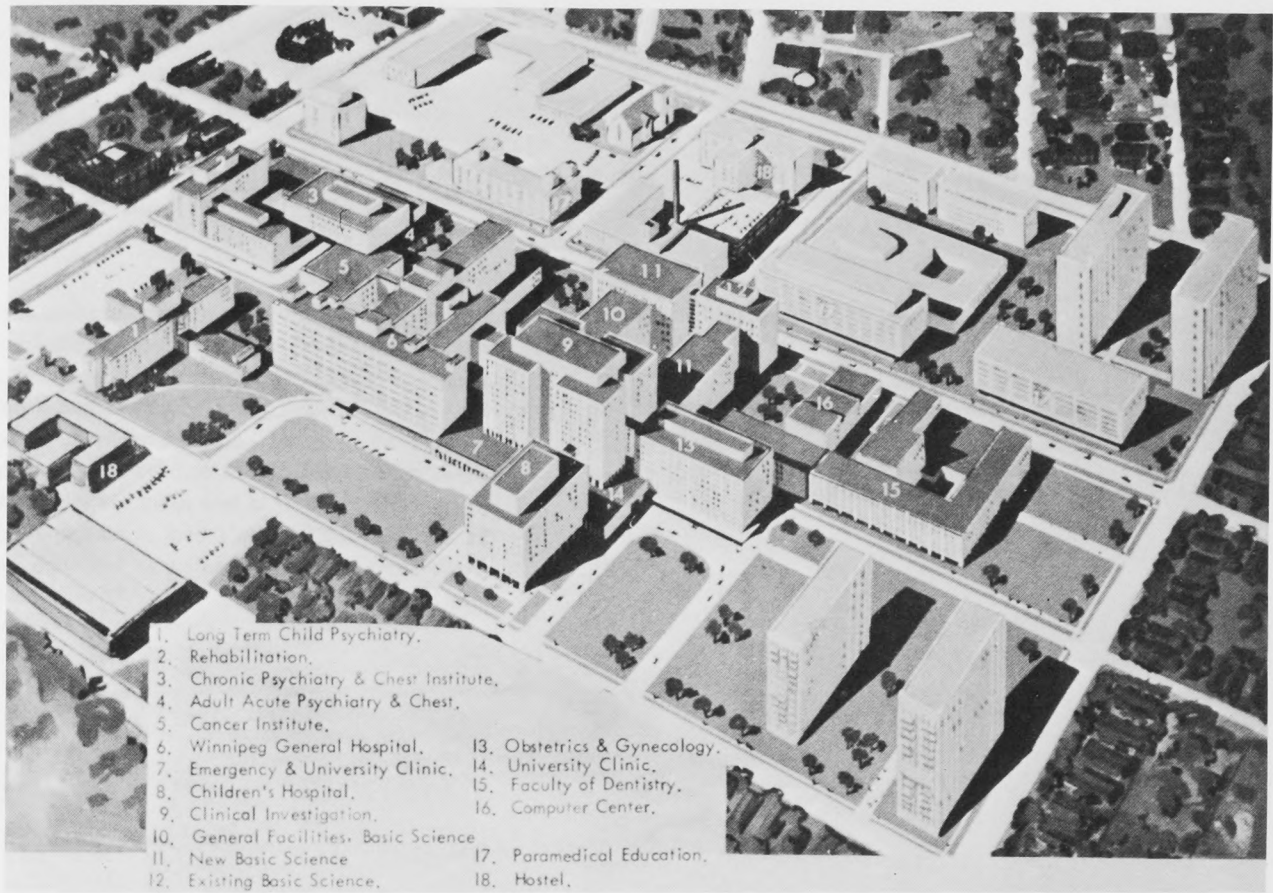

...THE PRESENT...

This is the Manitoba Medical College of 1891 as it stands today on the corner of Kate and McDermot; where it now serves humanity as an apartment house.

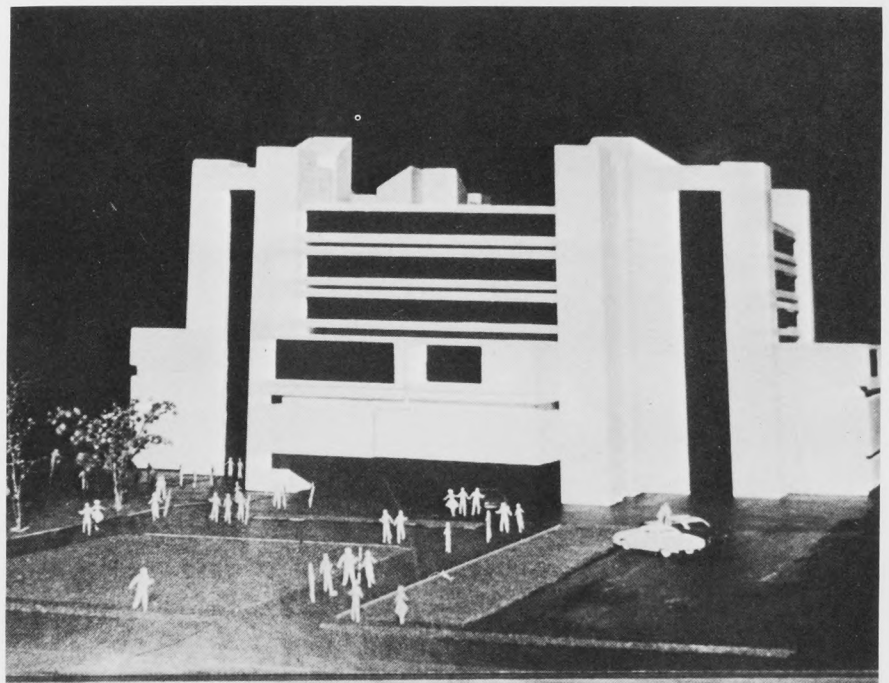

...AND THE FUTURE (?)

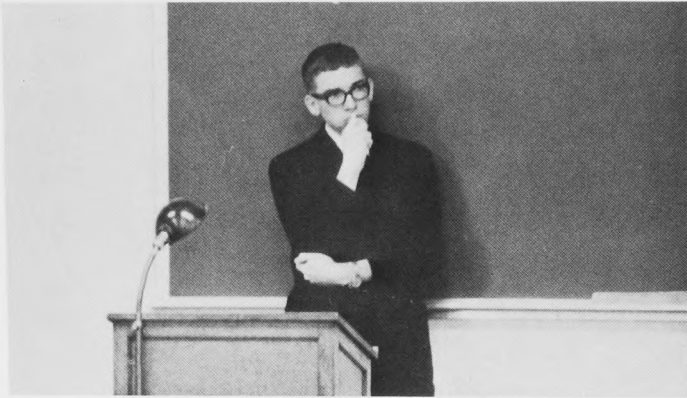

Proposed new Medical Centre Complex which will, hopefully, replace the existing college and provide the University of Manitoba with the most modern training facilities available.

The Joseph Doupe House will provide residence for medical students and students of the paramedical faculties as well as modern recreational facilities for the students and staff of the new Medical Centre Complex.

B. SC. (MED.) ORAL AUGUST

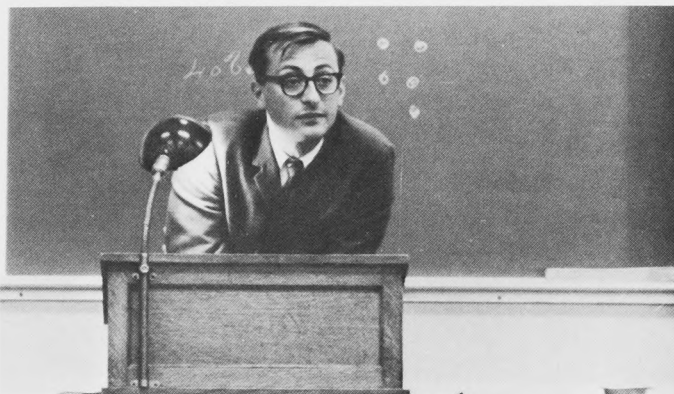

Harry Rayner ponders a difficult question.

Each summer after the long grind of classes and the horror of examinations are over, first and second year medical students have an opportunity via the B.Sc.(Med.) program to participate in basic science and clinical research. The pictures on these pages depict for 22 members of the Class of '69 the culmination of two summers of such work, namely each candidate's oral presentation of his project to the intense scrutiny of both the faculty and his peers.

Ed Lee defends his work in face of the usual heavy attack by the judges.

Stan Moroz leans into the heat of the debate.

Dr. Joseph Doupe

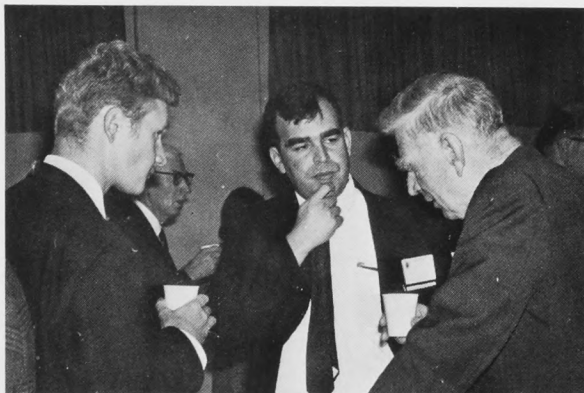

"He represented the question far more than the answer. To him the answer must always be a transient, unstable, fleeting thing that should properly lead to another question. He was at his best not in the lecture room, but in the seminar where he was superb in this kind of searching inquiry. It was here that Joe cast his unique and particular light. The group would be bogged down in a mass of apparently irrelevant or seemingly conflicting data. By the right question, correctly phrased, Joe would point to the area of fruitful thought or exploration that would place everything previous in proper relationship. In his monumental study "The Act of Creation", Arthur Koestler makes the case that creativity is the gift of relating the apparently non-related. This was the gift Joe brought to his students and to his associates. This was his particular genius."

FRESHMAN SMOKER

The first social event of the '67-'68 season was the Freshman Smoker - an informal get-together held Sept. 6th at the Maryland Hotel. It gave the first year class an opportunity to meet their older and wiser (?) classmates and professors.

No doubt, much valuable information was passed on to the new students (how to lose at poker - gracefully; how to consume certain medicinal liquors - copiously; and how to compete in a salome-line - viciously).

An enthusiastic group of staff doctors in attendance added greatly to the successful initiation of newcomers into our midst and the happy renewal of last year's friendships.

FRESHIE WEEK

FRESHMAN RECEPTION

The first year Meds were introduced to the Faculty of Medicine in style this year with a Freshman Reception at the International Inn. It was a real swinging affair although even the wildest of staffmen and residents had a little trouble competing with "The Luvin' Kynd", a group that believed in making themselves heard.

The hi-lite of the evening came with the introduction of Medicine's Freshie Queen candidates to a very receptive audience. The winner of the competition was a very shapely, very mini-skirted Joanne Rouse, a vivacious redhead from Education 1A. Joanne recently completed part of her high school education in France, and very ably represented our faculty in the University Freshie Queen competition. (Her phone number is available in the UMSU phone book.)

The '68 Sports' Weekend (also known as the long, long, long party) was hosted by the medical faculty of the University of Alberta at Edmonton.

Over seventy of our finest physical specimens boarded the train Thursday evening, Feb. 22nd, hopeful of capturing the top-ranking positions in the numerous sporting events planned.

The journey to Edmonton was marked by the sound of soft voices blended together in sweet harmony, friendly card games, warm camaraderie, and much revelry extending far into the night. Meanwhile, the train moved ahead - then back - then ahead - then tournament. The official events included basketball, volleyball, hockey, curling, ping-pong, bridge, and billiards. Ching Chin ('70) took top honours in the ping-pong tournament for Manitoba, but unfortunately suffered an injury to his back later in the day which curtailed his activities for the remainder of the weekend. Other standings included a first place in curling, and seconds in hockey, basketball, and volleyball. The day was climaxed by a tasty smorgasbord and dance at the Corona Hotel - with female companionship supplied by the Edmonton School of Nursing.

On arrival at our destination we received a warm welcome from Edmontonians and what was even more important, a delicious meal at Edmonton's University Hospital. Following supper, an evening of entertainment was provided at the interne's quarters of the hospital.

The entire outing must be classified as a terrific success, and a word of thanks extended to Ed Pavlin ('68) who did a splendid job of organizing the entire weekend from this end. Special mention should also be made of Ed Saman ('69) and Noah Carpenter ('71) who were leaders of the impromptu entertainment section, and provided much local colour throughout the weekend.

Large numbers of friends and family came out to St. John's-Ravenscourt to cheer on their favourite team in a hard fought staff-student hockey game Feb. 10th. The competition, which was the first of its kind, was a "howling" success for players and supporters alike. The player roster for the staff team included such threats as Bulldog Downs, Motion Hoeschen, Specs Krolman, Babe Bradford, and Gump Wankling. An enthusiastic group of spectators echoed cheers throughout the arena:

Here comes Krolman, skating free,
Give him glasses, he can't see.

However, in spite of numerous threats and promises, a mysteriously gurgling package presented to the Referees, students arose victorious by a final score of 8 to 4. It is hoped that the staffmen will be encouraged to return next year in an attempt to recover "lost glory".

GRADS FAREWELL

The Class of '68 had their last official chance to roar at the annual Grads' Farewell dinner and dance. Numerous staffmen and undergraduates joined with them at the Fort Garry Hotel March 23rd to make this a memorable evening and a grand farewell to a terrific class.

The evening commenced with a cocktail party held by Dr. A.E. Thomson followed by more cocktails at the hotel, and finally dinner and presentation of awards to various deserving members of the staff and student body.

This included the official inauguration of Cal Gutkin as new Senior Stick, Diane Biehl as Lady Stick, Dr. T.M. Roulston as Honourary President of M.M.S.A., and a special award presented

INTERMEDIATE A

The "A" Hockey Team had a rather disastrous season, failing to make the play-offs for the first time in years. The team would fall into a slump for a few minutes during the game and would often find itself one goal down with time running out. Despite outstanding efforts on the part of Jim Parrott, Grant Stiver, Bob Ramsay, and Phil Murray, the team was unable to come up with the crucial goal often enough.

Bringing up the very bottom of the league was the four-some skipped (?) by Jim Ross with one lonely victory to their credit (and that game was skipped by Dave Riddell!)

INDIVIDUALS

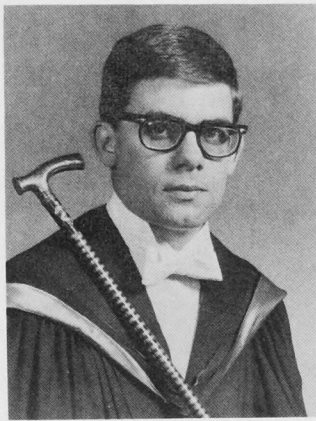

Once again there were many individuals who were successful in gaining recognition in University athletics: Danny Wong ('68) was U.M.S.U. table tennis champ and Gary Urano ('69) and Mayer Nelkin ('71) captured the U.M.S.U. doubles hand ball title.

HAPPENINGS

Second year - the halfway mark is in sight. The routine of texts, labs, and lectures ad nauseum is relieved by our first contact with patients and clinicians.

No longer low man on the totem pole, the second year class is treated with more tolerance and receives more personal interest from the various departments.

We are gaining confidence in Physical Diagnosis, and more self-assurance in general as we begin to apply some of the knowledge with which our professors flood us.

The class is in flux; --- medically, a transition from theory to practice; --- socially, a wave of engagements, weddings, and a new baby for class mascot.

Some things are still the same -- Friday afternoons at the pub; the 'phenomenal class rallies'; and the horrendous cramming for an infinite number of exams.

This year we instituted a number of traditions. Among them are the ANNUAL REUBEN CHERNIACK FISHING DERBY; the Biostatistics Pool for the first student to finish the exam and leave; and a book prize for the person who figures out the Clinical Science timetable correctly.

Second year was a year of hard work, hard play, and good friends.

L.M. and L.V.

"And then if you really want to cause a commotion, tickle him when he's swallowing it."

"Pathology --- wake me when it's over."

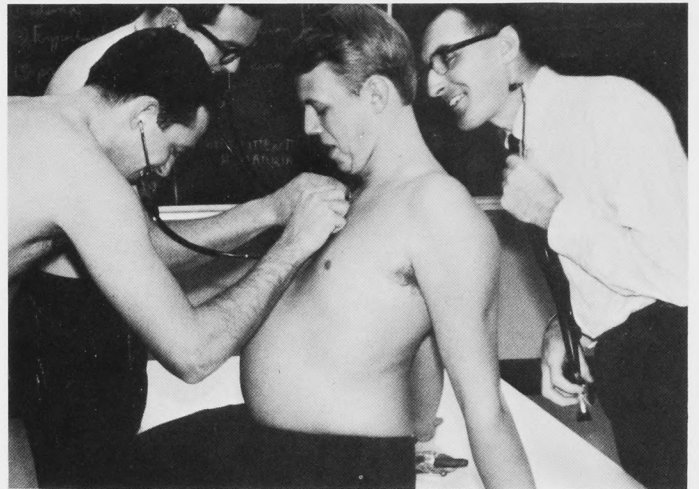

"I can do what with my Anatomy course, Mr. Luckhurst?"

"I knew that pharmacy degree would come in handy someday."

"E. coli, C. diphtheriae, M. leprae, and Vincent's organisms, all from my throat swab?"

Para 0; Gravid 1.

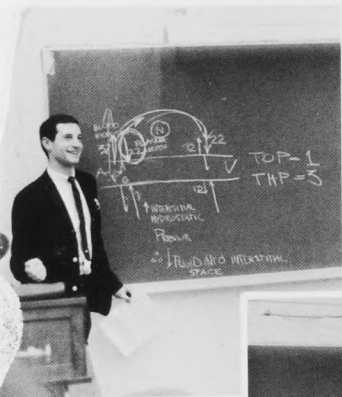

Everybody does "THE BECKSTEAD".

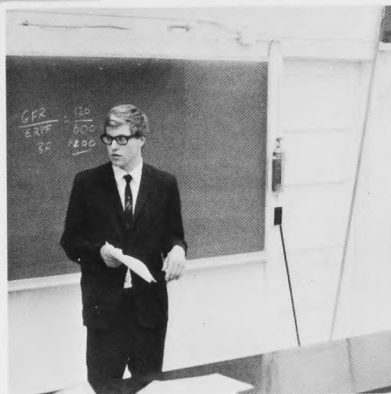

"And then you yell 'Ah-So' and flip him."

Sigmoidoscopy -- second year style.

"... in the fine tradition ..."

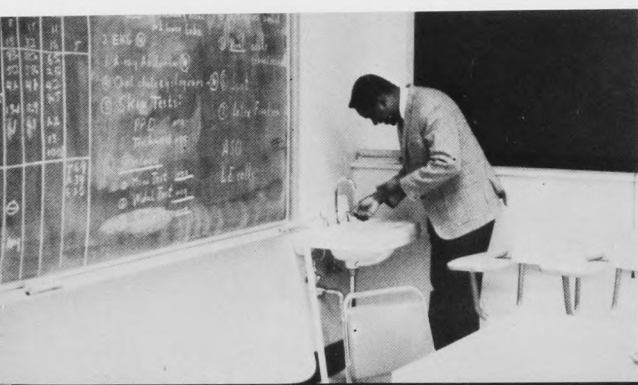

"Oh heavens! When Dave lectures, I get so mad I could crush roses."

What could be more fun on a Friday afternoon than a respiratory clinic??

"Yeah boy - that stuff sure is hard to get off your hands."

--- In the wilderness -- a loaf of bread, a jug of wine.

A student's life is molded and influenced by many people - the most important of which are his professors. Our debt to these men is great and it is all too seldom that we have an opportunity to express our gratitude to them. A few of these men are presented on these pages and our apologies are extended to those who have been omitted.

At long last the work on the 1968 edition of ASKLEPIOS has been completed and I feel that it would be appropriate at this time to express my appreciation to the many people who have played a significant role in preparing this yearbook and making its publication a reality.

First of all, I would like to thank the assistant editors, Diane Biehl ('69) and Brian Russell ('70) for their excellent work as overseers for the various sections of this book and for their patience and tolerance in putting up with some of my ideas. Secondly, thanks must also be extended to Frank Broomhead ('69), Matthew Burrell ('69), and Clay Eyolfson ('70) who were responsible for soliciting most of the advertising and without whose untiring endeavours the publishing of the yearbook would have been impossible. Janet Flett ('69) deserves mention for her ingenuity and refreshing approach to the Events section which I'm sure you will all agree is of extremely high quality. Mike McNeely ('69) and Alex Pue ('69) also have been a great comfort to me for their outstanding photographic work and I hope that they can overlook any unreasonable demands which I may have made upon them in this regard. A special thanks must go to Nan Bell who handled all of the secretarial work for me; to Jim Parrott ('68) who controlled the purse-strings of this venture admirably; to Mel Stover for his special photography used in the section on the history of the Manitoba Medical College; and to Dr. J.C. Wilt for his assistance in preparing that section and for allowing me to reproduce excerpts from his inaugural address.

There are many others, members of my staff and members of the general student body, who have made substantial contributions to the 1968 yearbook and who deserve much thanks for their support throughout the year.

It is my sincere hope that each and every student in this medical college will find something in this yearbook which has special meaning to him. This has been one of my main goals as editor of ASKLEPIOS and I hope that I have gained some measure of success in this area.

Ask the Man from Great-West
how you can "have your cake and eat it, too"

Do you want faster-growing cash values in your life insurance? Greater equity right from the first year? That's what Great-West Life's new Enhanced Equity Plan offers you.

You, like the vast majority of business and professional men, are a great believer in life insurance. You appreciate how it creates an estate value like nothing else can. You like the guaranteed growth of equity from increasing cash values which can be used for collateral purposes. You know that every premium put into cash value life insurance is really an imaginative way of transferring capital from one pocket to the other, and realizing a gain. Now, Enhanced Equity offers you these advantages in greater measure by providing early cash values and strengthening your equity position.

Net cost low — cash values high — protection constant — collateral value excellent — that's Enhanced Equity. Owning this kind of insurance is like being able to "have your cake and eat it, too". Ask the Man from Great-West how you can get the "most out of life" with an Enhanced Equity Plan.
